

BRENDA BURATTI BIO

Speaker and writer Brenda Buratti is the founder of Right Now Communications, dedicated to helping individuals and businesses increase productivity and achieve their goals. She comes from an executive background in television and media with extensive experience in change dynamics. Brenda Buratti has over twenty years experience managing through seismic industry changes, new product development, and downsized environments.

When traditional methods of time management grew inadequate for the fast changing, deadline oriented business environment she faced, she developed her own Extreme Time Management™ system. She began sharing her techniques with colleagues and business associates and realized the demand for contemporary time management strategies for what she calls “a 26/7 world.”

Brenda Buratti shares real-world advice that can be implemented immediately to increase productivity. She delivers her presentation with humorous behind-the-scenes stories of working in television. She is a member of the National Speakers Association and NSA Oregon.